A Message from our Founding Scholar:

In the Name of Allah, we seek His Blessing and Assistance. All Praise and Gratitude is due to Allah alone. Salutations & Peace be upon the Messenger of Allah.

The distinction of the Madina Institute USA for Islamic Studies and Research emanates from contemplation of the Deen, the Islamic way of life, and its aim: to empower its students with a balanced understanding and realization of the Book of Allah and the authentic Prophetic Sunnah.

Furthermore, it seeks to formulate intellectual paradigms and to develop a curriculum characterized by a balanced and moderate approach to religion. It aims to link the past with the present, and endeavors to purify the “Nafs” (the Lower Self) during the course of a program in the fundamentals of Islam. In this way, the Institute strives to fulfill the demands of Islamic societies in countries such as USA, Canada, South Africa, and other European countries wherein the Muslim population is considered a minority.

The groundbreaking intensive in Usul-ud-Din (Fundamentals of Islam), is a traditional program, designed to produce leaders grounded in the six foundational areas of study in our Din:

- Quranic Sciences
- Sunnah Sciences
- Jurisprudential Sciences and their foundations in the Four Schools
- Islamic Theology, Philosophy, and Logic
- Spirituality and Purification of the Heart
- Arabic Language Intensive – to access classical texts

These areas of study will prepare the student to master the Islamic fields and will provide opportunities for employment in various fields of teaching, Islamic consultation, Islamic centers, educational gatherings and Da’wah (calling people to Allah with insight and knowledge), if Allah wills.

In the trust of Allah,
Muhammad bin Yahya al-Ninowy
Madina Institute USA’s Philosophy:

“Love All & Stand for Peace”

“And whoever saves a life, it is as though he had saved all mankind.” (Qur’an, 5:32)

“Whoever kills a human being...it is as though he has killed all mankind. And whoever saves a life, it is as though he had saved all mankind.” (Qur’an, 5:32)

Madina Institute’s main goal is to facilitate the development of the student spiritually, academically, physically, and emotionally and socially.

We, at Madina Institute, believe that every human being is uniquely created and called to a compelling purpose. We are committed to help students discover, develop, and deploy their calling.

We, at Madina Institute, believe that every human being is created with the potential to achieve. We are committed to help students excel in every area of pursuit, especially in their area of unique gifting.

We, at Madina Institute, strive to pursue righteousness as presented in the Sacred Texts; The Qur’an, and Authentic Prophetic Sunnah. In other words, we will make every effort to balance grace and truth and ultimately point students to the person and message of Sayyidina Muhammad, salla llahu ‘alaihi wa aalihi wa sallam.

We, at Madina Institute, seek to create a healthy educational environment that is nurturing, empowering, loving, and positive; where students can grow, develop, and maximize their potential. Together, we will strive to energize and equip each student to succeed in whatever path Allah Ta’ala; The Creator, facilitates. Our desire is to see our students transform themselves, their communities, and the world, and become purposeful, productive spiritual Muslim adults.

What we are about:

Madina Institute understands that people can be seekers and believers at the same time. So whilst Madina Institute seeks to bring hope, growth and opportunity to all human beings, we are also a place of deep theological reflection.

Madina Institute is a place where your spiritual journey will flourish and help you to go deeper into your faith to serve humanity.

Dr. Muhammad Bin Yahya al-Ninowy, M.D.
President & Founding Scholar of Madina Institute USA, a Georgia-based Islamic Center & Seminary

A Brief History of Madina Institute USA

Madina Institute USA, a private, nonprofit institution in Duluth, GA is the centerpiece of Shaykh Muhammad bin Yahya al-Husayni al-Ninowy’s work, which began nearly thirty years ago, in 1989. Since its inception in California as the Ahlus Sunnah Association of North America, Shaykh Ninowy has been committed to making traditional Islamic studies accessible to the next generation of American Muslim scholars on U.S. soil, and calling American Muslims and Muslims worldwide to go back to the basics of the religion: the Qur’an and the Authentic Sunnah, in addition to teaching tolerance, peace, and compassion.

Shaykh Ninowy has been an integral part of the Atlanta community since 2000, when he began teaching students on the weekends as well as delivering sermons at Al-Madina Islamic Center and Institute in Norcross, Georgia. It was during this time that his popularity in the Atlanta area and abroad began to grow due to his ability to apply Islamic teachings to contemporary Western societies while reviving traditional approaches to the study of Islam. It was the increased interest from several dedicated students, which led him to officially found and register Madina Institute in 2012.

Madina Institute’s first brick and mortar location was in Lilburn, GA, but Shaykh Ninow’s students quickly outgrew the location and the search for a new property began. In 2014, Madina Institute USA purchased another property in Duluth, GA, which now serves as the main campus for all activities, including daily instruction, prayers, and Friday services.

In 2015, Madina Institute USA launched its inaugural One-Year Intensive in Islamic Studies at the Duluth, GA location with an inaugural class of thirty-five students dedicated to completing the one-year program.

Throughout its history, Madina Institute has encouraged understanding, appreciation, and compassion for the multicultural heritage of humankind while inspiring its students to be active and contributing members of our world and their respective local communities. Through a rigorous, Prophetic-centered education, we enable our students to grapple with and engage in the spiritual, intellectual, ethical, and cultural issues of our time, their implications, and applications to everyday life.

Madina Institute has gained a global presence, with institutes in, South Africa, United Kingdom, Canada, Malaysia, Norway, and most recently Sudan, all of which uphold the same message: Love for all, malice toward none; a message desperately needed in our world today.

Associate of Arts in Islamic Studies (Usul-ud-Din)

Introduction
The Associate of Arts in Islamic Studies (Usul-ud-Din) is a one-year foundational Islamic Studies program for beginners who seek to establish a firm foundation in the fundamentals of Islam as a student of knowledge in the traditional sense. The curriculum offered for the Associate of Arts program comes from Madina Institute’s dedication to preparing students of knowledge through examining contemporary dynamics, and ways in which our vast tradition deals with classical and modern issues through the lens of the primary scriptural sources.

The courses offered for the Associate of Arts program overlap with the course requirements for the first year of the Bachelor of Arts in Islamic Studies program. Successful graduates are eligible and encouraged to continue studying the Islamic sacred sciences though Madina Institute’s meticulously designed Bachelor of Arts program.

One Year Intensive
The Associate of Arts in Islamic Studies is offered as a one year intensive program for fulltime students. Students must successfully complete 60 credit hours of eligible coursework to graduate from the Associate of Arts in Islamic Studies program.

Students who fail to complete the requirements within a year have a maximum of two years from the date of matriculation to complete the coursework requirements for the Associate of Arts in Islamic Studies.

Scholarships for Associate’s and Bachelor’s Degree Students

Madina Institute grants a limited amount of scholarships to eligible full-time degree-seeking students using the seminary’s financial aid policies to determine need. Students apply for scholarship by completing Madina’s scholarship application, which includes an estimate of their income and expenses. The difference between a student’s income and expenses is established using Madina’s expense norms. This constitutes the financial need of the student. After financial need is calculated, scholarships are awarded in the form of a grant at the maximum allowable amount less any financial aid received. Students who withdraw from the seminary or become part-time students (less than 9 credit hours for basic degree students) during a semester forfeit their right to scholarships and financial aid for the term in which such action is taken.

New students entering in the fall must submit the scholarship application form no later than June 1. Students entering in the winter term or spring semester must apply for scholarships no later than eight weeks prior to the first day of classes. Returning students must return the seminary’s scholarship application, along with any required verifications no later than March 30th. All students should submit applications as early as possible since awards are made as applications are received. Awards are contingent upon the availability of funds. Persons interested in more detailed information about the scholarships offered by Madina Institute should contact the Financial Aid Office.

Refund Policies

Students who withdraw within the first three weeks of classes will be issued a 90% refund.

Student Life

Orientation

Upon arrival to Atlanta, students from out of town will be busy adjusting to the new landscape; it is a time of excitement, anticipation, and exploration. Ideally, students should try to book their airline tickets to ensure at least a week to settle into their new home and the locality. A week will be sufficient to acclimate and arrange necessities including transport, local banking, shopping, and locating places of interest.

Insha’Allah, our esteemed Founding Director Shaykh Muhammad al-Ninowy and other Madina instructors will be there to welcome you to the Madina Institute and introduce the Islamic Studies program. You will get to meet the staff and fellow students. Lectures will cover everything you need to know about class schedules, grading & certification, student conduct, tips, methods and pacing of personal study, as well as how to approach Sacred Knowledge, spiritually. Particular attention will be given to the Arabic Language course – introduction and placement testing so teachers can organize classes appropriately. More details on the program will be available at the Student Orientation Insha’Allah.

Orientation Day is Monday, September 19, 2016.
Classes are scheduled to commence Tuesday, September 20th, 2016.

Student Activities & Community Services

At Madina Institute USA, students are encouraged to integrate themselves in the local community, and volunteer to establish core-services both inside and outside of the local Mosque.

Members of the local community continue to volunteer their own resources to help develop Madina Institute USA and the Islamic Studies program; as such, students have multiple options to select from various projects that give back to the community. By serving the community, the students will not only develop their own personal and teaming skills, but also have an overall experience of belonging to the community.

Duluth is blessed with fair weather and scenic parks, which allow students to participate in various outdoor activities and sports. Over the weekend, students may get together with community members to attend picnics, and play team-sports like Soccer and Cricket. There are also multiple restaurants and fitness gyms within walking distance. Some Halal and ethnic foods are available within walking distance, but generally, more options are accessible within a 10-minute drive.
Course Details

Curriculum

The teaching program at Madina Institute USA is arranged in 8 main subjects:

- Arabic
- Theology (Aqidah)
- Quranic Sciences (‘Ulum, Tajwid, and Tafsir)
- Jurisprudence (Fiqh)
- Jurisprudential Origins (Usul ul Fiqh)
- Traditions (Hadith)
- Prophetic Biography & History
- Spirituality (Tazkiyah)

Interdisciplinary courses, which combine studies in two or more of these areas, are also taught in the degree programs. While classroom instruction is foundational to all degree programs, the goal is to equip students to continue their education independently. The resources of the library, the structure of course work, and independent study courses encourage realization of that goal.

The teaching program at Madina Institute is arranged in 8 main academic subjects: Arabic, Theology (Aqidah), Quranic Sciences (‘Ulum, Tajwid, and Tafsir), Jurisprudence (Fiqh), Jurisprudential Origins (Usul al-Fiqh), Traditions (Hadith), Prophetic Biography & History, and Spirituality (Tazkiyah). Madina Institute offers one additional subject that is generally outside the spectrum of the traditional study of Islam: Leadership and Academia, which augments studies, focusing on application of acquired knowledge and all the while contributing to overall passing scores.

Courses are taught in modules occasionally covering several texts in a given subject. Performance within each module is assessed by examinations and assignments set by the instructor. Each module completed applies to the overall score within the given subject matter, which in turn contributes to the overall score within the Institute’s broader curriculum.

While classroom instruction is of utmost importance, students are supplied with access to a plethora of additional material selected by instructors, both digitally and in the Institute’s new donated library.

While classroom instruction is foundational to all degree programs, the goal is to equip students to continue their education independently. The resources of the library, the structure of course work, and independent study courses encourage realization of that goal.

Arabic is the key to Islamic studies; without it a student of knowledge is forever dependent on the translation efforts of others. Thus, the main goal of the Madina Institute Arabic program is to enable students to access classical Arabic texts in their original form on their own as well as navigate modern usage of the language. Empowering students occurs through exposure to Arabic for at least two hours a day and in three contexts: structure, guiding reading and MSA (Modern Standard Arabic). Students initially undergo a structure (grammar) intensive coupled with guided reading, exercises and drills that develop a solid grasp of the foundations of the language. This is followed by 4 levels of MSA rigorously researched and designed to ready non-native speakers for University in the Arab world. While going through the MSA courses, guided reading continues as a separate course using classical material to strengthen reading skills and maintain foundational knowledge. Finally, students do a study of classical Arabic grammar in Arabic from classical text before leaving the Institute aptly equipped for future study in the medium of Arabic.

Theology covers every aspect of the belief systems of Muslims, including sectarian differences and points of contention. Theology is the cornerstone of the Islamic religion, but often quite misunderstood by Muslims themselves in a modern era where classical works are neglected and atheism is on the rise. Through detailed study and memorization of classical texts and proofs, students become vested to navigate the landscape of polemics and inter and intra-religious discussion with sound logic and perspective and with recourse to original material.

Quranic Sciences covers not only a detailed survey of the sciences of the book ('Ulum al-Quran), but also a deeper practical study of Recitation (Tajwid) and Exegesis (Tafsir). 'Ulum al-Quran includes topics about the nature of the Quran and its contents, revelation, occasions of revelation, miracles, names, types of verses, abrogation, transmission and preservation, division, language and style, recitation, modes of recitation, and exegesis. The Quran is the only book with a practical science developed just to read it: Tajwid. Students learn this science not only as detailed linguistic theory, but more importantly through application of rules via regular recital and memorization of portions of the book under the direct supervision of experts. Additionally, care is taken to go through the entire Quran with regard to its apparent meanings as well as the implications, reflections and nuances discussed by classical and modern Exegetes.

Jurisprudence is the most practical of the Islamic studies for any Muslim, directly effecting and dictating their daily lives. Over the course of the year, students learn the basics of worship and interpersonal law in the two most widespread schools among Sunnis, the Shafi‘i, and Hanafi, as well as survey other schools especially when rulings stand in contrast. Finally, students will read through parts of the famous comparative work by the Maliki Scholar Ibn Rushd, giving them a glimpse of the vastness of Islamic Jurisprudence.

Jurisprudential Origins deals with the way in which Islamic law is derived. Though beginning with a simple, classic primer on the subject, students eventually delve deeply into the nuances and subtleties of Divine Law (Shariah) through source material and specific case studies. These courses enhance student appreciation of material covered in Jurisprudence classes as well other cross-cultural manifestations of Islamic Law and Muslim practices.

Traditions (Hadith) are records of the actions, statements and other historical records of the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ and his Companions. As these traditions are a key source of Islamic law, thought, culture, and life second only to the Quran itself, a science developed to record, analyze catalog and authenticate them. Students not only learn the jargon and approaches to studying the Hadith literature, but also survey literature in the field and apply classical methodologies themselves, including rote memorization of many traditions and related texts.

Prophetic Biography & History is one of the earliest branches of Islamic literature and provides insightful context to all other subjects. Students learn the popular details of the Prophetic Biography (Sirah) concurrently with a famous analysis and interpretation of events in the life a Muslim, especially in the modern age. Furthermore, they go through a reassessment of the Sirah’s many narrations in light of Hadith authentication. This is coupled with two short courses in Islamic History covering the early formative period and modern developments providing students an enriched and informed understanding of their religion in the broader historical spectrum.
Spirituality as a science has many titles, such as Tazkiyah (purification of the soul) or Tasawwuf (Sufism) but usually goes misunderstood not only by the Muslim masses but also by claimed practitioners. Courses in Islamic Spirituality take a balanced and academic approach to the subject as a science taken directly from source texts and outlining the specific methodologies and interpretations in light of the Shari’ah.

Leadership and Academia goes hand in hand with the traditional study of the very social religion of Islam. In addition to learning the how’s and why’s of the religion, students are expected to act upon their new knowledge not only in their personal lives, but in the community at large. Short courses ranging from presentation of Islam to non-Muslims, presiding over marriages and funerals, giving academic presentations, and giving sermons to counseling and adult and youth education develop confident and competent community members who apply what they learn for the benefit of their society.

Complementary Courses expose students to additional fields and topics that are not part of core or necessarily academically rigorous yet still part of the Islamic studies and culture. These courses target specific interests but are complementary to the overall grade scheme.
Courses of Instruction

The following pages provide brief synopses of courses taught at the Madina Institute USA. Each course is designed specifically to reach the stated goals of each subject outlined above. Most classes are offered just once a year and occasional substitutions occur depending on availability of visiting scholars.

Courses may be dropped only upon the express written consent of the Dean and Academic Director for students who qualify to teach those very courses themselves.

The registrar publishes the specific course offerings in the preceding spring each year. Copies are available in the Office of Academic Affairs and on the web.
